The 2010 NIH Spring Research Festival Exhibit

The Technical Sales Association, a nationwide member-led organization based in greater metropolitan Washington, DC, invites you to exhibit at the fifth annual NIH Spring Research Festival Exhibit.

Jointly sponsored by the NIH Office of Intramural Training and Education, this successful edition to the TSA trade show marketing calendar promises to once again attract a highly qualified audience. Being held in conjunction with the annual Postbaccalaureate and Predoc Poster Day as well as other special events, we expect record attendance.

The NIH Office of Intramural Training and Education, a division of the Office of Intramural Research, administers a variety of programs and initiatives to recruit and develop individuals who participate in research training activities on the NIH main campus in Bethesda, MD. The annual Postbaccalaureate Poster day also includes scientific lectures all being held in conjunction with the Research Festival Exhibit.

The National Institutes of Health is one of the world's foremost biomedical research centers, and the Federal focal point for biomedical research in the United States. Comprised of 27 separate Institutes and Centers, NIH has 75 buildings on more than 300 acres in Bethesda, MD. From a total of about $300 in 1887, the NIH budget has grown to more than $28 billion in 2009.

The 2009 exhibit featured 260 exhibit booths showcasing the latest product developments of the leading nationwide and regional suppliers to the NIH research community. Likewise, well over 1,500 research professionals from the NIH community and neighboring facilities attended the two day exhibit. Through the "Taste of Bethesda" luncheon featuring one of Bethesda's top restaurants, we are certain the 2010 attendance will double.
